HIV Drug Assistance Programs

Are you uninsured? If you do have health coverage, are your prescription co-pays or other co-insurance costs prohibitively expensive? Or does your health plan come with high medication deductibles that you can't afford? Help may be available from the following:

Co-Pay Programs

Patient Assistance Programs (PAPs)

AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP)

Medicaid

Different assistance programs have different eligibility criteria based on the federal poverty level (FPL). Eligibility for this year is based on last year's income. The figure is adjusted based on family or household size. A complete table is available here. Unless otherwise stated, companies ask for verification of income, usually in the form of a federal income tax return. Companies also generally consider household income, meaning that a married couple that files joint taxes will be judged on their combined income. People who file individual income tax returns will only have their individual income considered. In many cases, if you are told you are ineligible for assistance, you can appeal to have the decision reversed.

CO-PAY PROGRAMS

These programs offer assistance to people with private health insurance for the co-payments required to obtain HIV drugs at the pharmacy. Some companies offer co-pay assistance for all of their drugs, including non-HIV drugs.

PATIENT ASSISTANT PROGRAMS (PAPs)

Patient Assistance Programs (PAPs) offer free HIV drugs to people who do not qualify for assistance programs such as Medicaid, Medicare, or AIDS Drug Assistance Programs (ADAPs).

Two other recent developments that will potentially ease access to PAPs are the Common PAP Application \(CPAPA\) and HarborPath. The Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), along with seven pharmaceutical companies, the National Alliance of State and Territorial AIDS Directors (NASTAD), and community stakeholders developed a common patient assistance program application that can be used by both providers and patients. Before, patients and advocates had to fill out different sets of paperwork for each company; the new application should help simplify this process, however the form still has to be sent to each company program you are applying to for assistance. Click here for the form.

HarborPath is a non-profit organization that helps uninsured individuals living with HIV/AIDS gain access to brand-name prescription medicines at no cost, by providing case managers with a single "one-stop shopping" online portal for PAP applications and medication fulfillment through a mail-order pharmacy. Currently in its pilot phase in six states with most HIV pharmaceutical companies on board for ADAP waiting list clients, there are plans for expansion, including adding medicines for hepatitis C. Go to harborpath.org for more information.

Please note:

- Most companies are using HarborPath for ADAP waiting list patients.
- Boehringer Ingelheim and Genentech are covering ADAP waiting list patients only through their own PAPs.
- Other companies are covering ADAP waiting list patients through both HarborPath and their own PAPs.
- Some companies are also covering ADAP disenrolled clients through their own PAP programs and some are not.
- If an ADAP patient has been disenrolled because the state has lowered FPL eligibility, the drug company FPL may also be too low to cover them. Check the individual company PAP criteria; and always apply for an exception if you are told you are not eligible.

In some instances, Medicare Part D clients, as well as the underinsured who have co-insurance, deductibles, caps or co-pays they cannot afford, are covered 100% by the PAP; eligibility is based on both projected out of pocket drug/medical expenses and income. Both underinsured and people with no insurance who are initially denied coverage through the PAP should always ask for an exception or an appeal.

Drugs covered: Kaletra, Norvir

AbbVie does not request income verification and they only consider the income of the individual. In some instances, Medicare Part D clients, as well as the underinsured who have co-insurance, deductibles, caps or co-pays they cannot afford, are covered 100% by the PAP; eligibility is based on both projected out of pocket drug/medical expenses and income. Both the underinsured and people with no insurance who are initially denied coverage through the PAP should always ask for an exception or an appeal. ## MEDICAID

A little over half of all Americans with HIV get their meds and health care through these federal programs. Currently, you can qualify for Medicaid if you have a low income and are part of a “categorically eligible” group (children, parents with dependent children, pregnant women, and people with disabilities). In 2014, states have the option of allowing you to be eligible for Medicaid without being disabled (or part of any other eligible group) if your income is 133 percent below the federal poverty level. Here's info on how to find out more about Medicaid options in your state:
